

R' Eli Gershon

Hadasa

In memory of my father z"l

My father z"l was born in Kutno, learned in Kutno with the Gaon E' Yehoshiele Kutner ztz"l. A noble, flamboyant, extremely sharp scholar, a follower of Alexander chassidim and the right-hand man of the Rebbe in Alexander, he was excellent prayer leader, a teacher and a reader. Strict and polished to perfection. Educated generations of scholars. On his recommendations rabbis received smichot. Many of his students went on to become leaders. My late father compiled and edited the manuscript of the Gaon R. Yehoshiele Kutner and thanks to the efforts of my father, Rabbi Trunk could publish the books of the Gaon R. Yehoshiele Kutner. He died in the Kutno ghetto (in Konstancja) from typhus on the 6 Adar 5701 (5 March 1941), at the age of 78. May God avenge his blood.

In memory of my mother z"l

My mother z"l was born in Żychlin to a chassidic family. Received a chassidic education. Noble and kind-hearted, welcoming guests, endeavored for public needs, Hachnasat Kalah, secretly giving money, visiting the sick. Raised three daughters and one son who is in Israel.

The daughter Chana Sztroweis died in Israel and the two daughters Alta and Zvia perished in the extermination camp. She died in the Kutno ghetto (in Konstancja) a few months after the death of my late father on the 5 Av 5701 (29 July 1941).

In memory of a father and a friend

My father was a modest and humbel man. Since we were little, we rarely saw him. He always worked outside the home and when he would come back on Friday evening, we would hug him and ask: "Where did you work, father?" After all, wherever they set up police, camps or walls – father had a hand in the matter. He was working in the far north and in the south, and it was beyond our understanding how he managed to get to all those places.

One day, and I was already a boy of about 16 years old, I was in the Palmach course in Joara. I returned to the camp after a grueling day of training and suddenly I met my dear father, Mordechai Lamski, coming out as if from the womb of the earth. While we were sitting over a cup of coffee, he told me for the first time About one of his occupations as an activist in the "slikim" organization and the hiding places of the various explosives and weapons of the Palmach. For me it was the sign that indeed my father trusted me completely.

His last work was the construction of the wall on the flour mill in the Montefiore neighborhood. Every night they would be engaged in building the wall after it had been destroyed by the rioters during the day. While risking lives and courage, he was engaged in the construction of the wall and not one was killed while working.

Such was the dear man, who repaired, was humble and fulfilled his duty without batting an eyelid. Indeed, a father and a friend and to my mother -- a husband and an irreplaceable comrade was taken from us. The wound left in the heart will never heal.

May his memory be blessed!

Our father R' Moshe-Yosef Pasirsztajn z"l was the only son of the late R' Abraham Abba Pasirsztajn. R' Moshe-Yosef was known in Kutno as a chassid and a craftsman, he was one of the first watchmakers in our city. Our father z"l would always say: "How rich is the one who is happy with his share." And he would always mention the scripture: "If you eat of the toil of your hands, fortunate are you. R' Moshe-Yosef, our father, was a humble man, loved his neighbor and the people. He was also among the organizers of the Maccabi Fire Brigade in our town.

Our mother Zipora born Kohn was a modest woman and always supported everyone in need. She was a woman of charity, well known in the city.

Their memory will be blessed as their destiny was to pass away before the coming of the oppressors, may their name be erased.

May their memory be blessed!

Among the victims of the Holocaust, may God avenge their blood, in the Pasirsztajn family, sons of R' Moshe-Yosef who perished:

My Mother – May Her Memory Be Blessed

My good mother, when I bring her image before me, your beautiful face is soft and pleasant, spreading bright light, and eyes that produce wisdom and kindness. I notice that time has not changed anything about them. They only widened the gap and deepened the pain of orphanhood. At the beginning of this century, my mother's family moved from Krakow to Kutno, grandfather Shraga Rubin and grandmother Chaya who was a special personality because she was a midwife, something that was rare among the Jews at that time. Thanks to her work and thanks to her noble qualities, she quickly took her place at the top of the community. In accordance with family tradition, she gave her daughter Helena, who is my mother, a university education, and married her to a young but successful doctor named Simcha Tajchner.

At the beginning of his career, while the First World War was raging in Europe, my father worked as a doctor in our city, and there they had two children, my late brother and myself. Their happy life was short and while he was still a young man, in 1920, my father died after a long illness. A young widow, two small children and the "war" of a difficult existence – these were the faces of reality when she woke up the day after she became a widow. She suddenly became the head of the family, and with endless dedication, she made it her life's goal to educate the children and to be both a pain and a mother to them. With inexhaustible strength, and to dull the pain of loss of her beloved in her youth, and out of her good and benevolent nature, she performed mitzvot and good deeds, giving in secret, introducing poor children to circumcision, and as a midwife not in order to receive a reward.

I remember how her home became a home whose doors are open to anyone in need, especially her love for the "Beitar" youth movement in which she saw the embodiment of desires and aspirations for redemption and Zion. She saw the organization of first aid courses as a sacred work and together with Dr. Fruchter they found a solution for every sufferer. However, her faithfully serving the needs of the public did not make her forget her life's goal to raise her children in a rooted Jewish and Zionist tradition on the one hand, and a general education with a broad education while shaping their character on the other hand, and so it happened that every trace of my being, I owe to my good mother.

I remember how on winter nights she would bring up the memory of my father, so that his image would not be forgotten, and in her stories, which came from the heart, she would take us to another world, where my father lived, until I could sit on his lap and caress his face. And as her story continues, we reunite into a happy family without separation, and every time she told us about my father, our eyes would fill with tears out of love and emotion, and only the grace of the transition to the magical world where my father is – dried my tears.

This was my blessed mother, her beautiful and noble features, her soft eyes radiating wisdom and kindness, her arms like a swan's neck, long and pointed fingers, which when she ran them over my body gave me a sense of wonder. Oh my mother, your bitter and cruel end did not separate us, inside of me you live and dwell forever.

"For he who avenges blood remembers them"

With profound sadness and a painful heart, I mention here the memory of our dears: my unforgettable mother, my brother, my sister-in-law and their children, murdered by the Nazis, may their names be erased.

In eternal memory

The grandfather Rabbi Baruch Bendit Heftman, born in Łuków, Admor of Łuków community. I remember, from the accounts of my father z"l, that the grandfather and his chassidim once exceeded the "Shabbat zone" – and caused a great unrest among the residents of the city, who banned him and he was forced to flee with his family from Łuków to Kutno, where he managed a cheder.

The grandmother Rabbanit Frida, died giving birth to her son Abraham z"l, who was my father. The grandfather married a second time and had four more children.

Their son Yaakov Heftman and his family. He was known in Kutno, being involved in public life, a teacher.

My sister Ryvka, who disappeared in the Shoah. The fate of the rest of the children is not known to me.

My mother Sara born Kaliszak, died in Belgium in 1927.

My sister Esther who disappeared during the Shoah in Belgium.

My brother Simcha, known in Kutno as a "Maccabi" sportsman.

From the who family, only remained Ryvka Grilowicz born Heftman and myself.

The mourners:
Frida Heftman, Haifa
